A message from our medical director

Many international graduates have joined the Medical First family. I am proud to be an IMG who came to Australia as a junior doctor over 20 years ago.

Here at Medical First Group, you will have the opportunity to work in a variety of locations, with the support of a team dedicated to providing long term continuity of care to all our patients.

We will support you in your journey to RACGP fellowship and beyond, with mentorship, examination preparation sessions and more.

Possibilities for Placements

There's strong demand for qualified GPs across regional, rural and urban communities in Australia. With 10 practices running and more in the works, there's a good chance we have options to suit you and your family.

A country or city placement?

You could have the best of both worlds. Some of our international GPs migrate on a skilled regional visa, which require a number of years working in a regional area before applying for permanent residency. Upon gaining residency some GPs choose to stay in the local community they've come to know and love, while others choose to make the move to one of our modern metro practices. All practices are well-furnished and well-equipped.

We're here to help you explore all the options for relocation to Australia. Read on for the various ways that we can help you with this process, including relocation grants.

Our regional practices

Relaxed & friendly country living

Appreciative local communities

Hear from Our Doctors

Our doctors say it best. Gain insights from GPs who have been working with Medical First Group and what they have to say about their experience.

Dr Tabinda Malik

“I have worked with Medical First for the last 2.5 years. I have really enjoyed being able to just focus on medicine. They administer the practice very professionally and this makes it very easy to work at Narre Warren. I am good at medicine, and they are good at business. I enjoy the work-life balance that having someone else manage the day-to-day operations has given me.”

Dr Ejaz Mohammad, Goulburn

“I have worked with the Medical first group for the past 18 months. I have been pleasantly surprised by the consideration they display to their GP workforce. They focus on a good work/life balance. They are constantly assuring that we have clinical autonomy and are well supported with professional staff.”

Dr Allan Golding, Port Pirie

“I have been working with Medical First group since September 2020. As a specialist GP I am most skilled at practicing medicine. The very professional and supportive team from Medical First group allows me to get on with my job, free from the worries about clinic and staff management.”

Pathways to Practicing in Australia

Depending on your circumstances, there can be multiple pathways to relocate to Australia. There are two key areas to consider: immigration and registration.

Registration

In order to work as a general practitioner in Australia, you will need to be eligible for registration with the Medical Board of Australia. There are four pathways to medical registration for International Medical Graduates (IMGs) in Australia:

- + Competent Authority pathway
- + Specialist pathway
- + Standard pathway
- + Short term training in a medical specialty pathway

Our team can help you apply for the right pathway to suit your circumstances and professional goals. We can also help you to prepare for a pre-employment structured clinical interview (PESCI), if you are applying for limited or provisional registration.

Immigration

You can choose from the General Migration program, or we can sponsor you through the Employer Sponsor Migration program. The team at Medical First Group can help with your visa application and also help you to apply for family members to move with you.
